Failure Reflection

Directions: Tech leaders from around the world gather for conferences called FailCons, where they share their failures and discuss what they’ve learned in the process. In this activity, you’ll reflect on a failure of your own (it could be academic, social, athletic, etc.) to prepare for your own class FailCon. (If your experience is too personal to share, you can always change a few details or ask your teacher for help.)

1. What was your initial goal, and how did you fail?

2. Now it’s time to apply the failing up method!
   - How did you feel when you didn’t meet your initial goal?
   - What could you have done better to get the outcome you wanted?
   - Did you set a new goal to move forward? (If not, think about what you could have done.)
   - If you did set a new goal, what was the outcome?

3. What did you learn from the experience that you would like to share with others?
